

Living In Process Intensive

April 4th to 7th, 2024 – Black Mountain, North Carolina

Wilson Schaef Associates proudly announces a four-day Living in Process intensive in Black Mountain, North Carolina.

The LIP work, originally developed by Dr. Anne Wilson Schaef, offers a way of life that focuses on healing, living in balance, and spiritual growth. Anyone wanting to grow in their life's journey, and participate in a supportive learning and healing community, is welcome to attend. This intensive will be held in a quiet mountain setting in North Carolina.

The intensive is an educational and participatory experience of healing and community facilitated by those who have trained with Anne Wilson Schaef, Ph.D., D.H.L. Participants will have an opportunity to learn about living in a paradigm which draws upon old wisdom and new ways. Recovering addicts, their friends and families, healthcare professionals, ministers, addiction counselors, and other individuals involved in personal growth may find Intensive Workshops helpful in their choice and ability to feel and to live more fully and joyfully.

Living in Process work is not psychotherapy. It offers a respectful, non-controlling, non-judgmental, supportive environment where holistic healing and transformation are possible while confronting addictive behaviors and processes.
